Suggested title: Relocate Global celebrates excellence in the leadership of people and delivery of mobility services

The winners of global mobility's biggest accolades, Think Global People and Relocate Awards 2023, were announced on Thursday 8th May, at The Innovation Festival for Global Working, in the glorious countryside setting of Lamberhurst, Kent, UK.

Think Global People and Relocate Awards brought together many elements of the tight-knit, fast-expanding international community of global mobility, relocation, international management and business travel expertise, in an upbeat festival-style gathering that successfully inspired, connected and celebrated people working in the global mobility sector.

Capturing the spirit of innovation

The 2023 Awards took innovation as the over-arching theme with the aim of highlighting excellence across a range of global people management and mobility areas. This year's awards provided the framework for organisations of all sizes to demonstrate exciting and novel approaches contributing to best practices and tailored, best-fit solutions to management and mobility issues.

BBC broadcast and BAFTA-nominated journalist, Jayne Constantinis, hosted the awards ceremony, alongside Fiona Murchie, founder of Kent-based company Relocate Global.

"I'm delighted to host this awards ceremony," said Jayne Constantinis. "The Relocate Awards are renowned for innovation and pushing the boundaries. The winners and highly commended entrants are doing just that."

Celebrating excellence in international management and talent mobility

The judges were particularly impressed with the combination of technology and people-centred support which showed how well mobility services can provide fast and cost-effective solutions, within the safety net of human backup ensuring both reassurance and a personal, tailored service.

They felt it was rewarding to see the focus on managing mobility successfully set against the backdrop of Ukraine and other global crises and also to see the amazing leadership entries that demonstrated just how well our relocation community enacts global mobility.

The judges welcomed the focus on environmental, social and governance issues and the emphasis on diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives.

Leading the field and breaking boundaries

Widely regarded as among the most coveted in the relocation and global mobility sphere, the Think Global People and Relocate Awards cover every aspect of the global mobility supply chain: from HR and global mobility policy and procedure, international leadership, technology and analytics, immigration and taxation, finance and banking, business travel, education and schools, removals, partner and family support, health and wellbeing, serviced apartments, to residential and commercial property.

“People are at the heart of our sector”, said Relocate Global’s managing editor, Fiona Murchie, “As well as striving for and achieving excellence, all our award winners are truly making a difference in people’s lives. We are so proud to be able to honour every one of them.”

The Think Global People and Relocate Awards Supplement 2023 shares details and examples from the winning international leadership and mobility management entries. The examples given demonstrate both best practice that would be worthy of benchmarking with examples of best fit, tailored solutions which were exceptionally effective in practice.

The awards ceremony took place at the conclusion of the Innovation Festival for Global Working, where NASA astronaut Tony Antonelli was the headline attraction in a full day of events and activities which included a panel discussion, workshops and ‘innovation hubs’, where business leaders engaged with their peers, to explore how the ground-breaking, cutting-edge technology at the forefront of space science can be used to turbo-charge their own sectors, boost growth and productivity, and radically shape innovation.
